Duetorrihotels insider guide to Florence's true gems...

Florence is a place of gastronomic delights, delicious and extravagant panini at almost every turn, excellent traditional trattoria and elegant gourmet dining experiences as well. This is my favorite foodie spots in the city, from sandwich bars, typical authentic trattorias to Michelin-starred restaurants.

Ino

This is the best sandwich spot in Florence. Approaching to this place it is easy to be distracted by the people eating happily inside. The handwritten list of panini proposals you find at the entrance is tempting. The Sandwiches are made with typical local products from Tuscan and served on crusty bread. You will be rewarded with one of the most delicious sandwich!

Buca Mario

If you are looking for the home of the Bistecca, this would be definitely the place. This vibrant typical restaurant offers a very good quality meal and a fantastic service. It is housed in a 16th century cellar and is a 130 years old restaurant in the heart of Florence.

Enoteca Pitti & Gola

Let me recommend this lovely wine restaurant overlooking the Medici Royal Palace offering traditional and modern Italian cuisine made from fresh, local ingredients, local cheeses and charcuterie with a great selection of Tuscany and Italian wines. A truly unforgettable dining experience.

Touch

This restaurant philosophy is giving a touch of freshness to the traditional Tuscan cuisine emphasizing the simplicity in every dish. Menu is changed almost every day to offer the best freshness food available at the market. At this place you are far away from the crowds of tourists.

Enoteca Pinchiorri

A 3 star Michelin restaurant with a wine cellar containing thousands of Italian and international excellent wines.

The expert staff, working in concert, with plenty of time and care to lavish on our customers. A kitchen that excels in the search for and preparation of the finest raw materials, in creativity, in the mastery of cooking techniques. Service that's extremely attentive, without being invasive.
